20 Deaths in Nation Caused by Asian Flu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Asian flu—or something very similar—is sweeping the eastern half of the nation, causing widespread absenteeism among students and teachers, forcing some schools to close and resulting in at least 20 deaths.

The Carolinas appear to be hardest hit.

North Carolina has been declared an epidemic area with flu outbreaks in about 20 counties and at least two deaths reported from the Asian variety. Three others died of "flu-like" ailments.

In South Carolina, three counties have had serious flu problems. Hospitals are overflowing with patients in Columbia and Walterboro. More than a dozen flu deaths have been reported in the state.

Health officials said the flu probably is the Asian strain in South Carolina, although it is not officially diagnosed as such. It has been confirmed as the Asian type in North Carolina.

Schools in Trigg County, Ky., closed indefinitely because 20 percent of 2,000 pupils were ill. At nearby Hopkinsville, Ky., the hospital said it is tending the greatest number of patients in its 40-year history.

More than 7,200 pupils and teachers were absent from Louisville, Ky., schools Monday.

Kentucky's state health commissioner, Dr. Russell Teague, said the state may be in for an epidemic of Asian flu but it appears mild and is no cause for alarm.

School absenteeism also was running high in Maryland's coastal area (about twice as much as normal), in Cincinnati (thousands out), in St. Louis (about 10 percent of the school population) and in Norwich, Conn. (nearly 50 percent).

In Bridgeport, Conn., schools were closed Monday to give teachers.

Consolidation Bill to Court

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—A suit dating back to 1956, concerning consolidation of 11 townships in Garland County was put before the state Supreme Court Tuesday on appeal.

The litigation stems from a movement in the early 1950s to modernize the township structure of the county by consolidation of the units.

A petition to eliminate the townships was filed Sept. 18, 1956 and the consolidation was ordered by County Court Dec. 5, Circuit Judge C. Floyd Huff overruled the County Court in an appeal.

On May 27, 1957, the state Supreme Court reversed Huff's ruling because he had not held a hearing before issuing his order. The matter then lay dormant until residents of Davis Township attacked the 1956 order in a suit filed Aug. 30, last year.

Dobbs upheld the consolidation move Sept. 17. The appeal to the high court was submitted Tuesday.

Domestic, Foreign Policies Hit

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The Kennedy administration received blasts on both foreign and domestic policy Tuesday from Rep. Ed Foreman, R-Tex., in Arkansas for a Lincoln Day dinner.

Foreman, at 28 the youngest representative in the nation, said the U.S. should blockade Cuba and use military force if necessary to overcome the threat of spreading communism in the country.

He termed the administration's tax cut proposal "unwise and unsafe" and said, "a planned deficit is no better than an accidental one."

Foreman said the Kennedy administration should get as tough with Cuba as it did with the steel industry last year, when proposed price increases were rescinded after Kennedy said the industry was putting its own interests ahead of the national welfare.

He called for implementation of the Monroe Doctrine and proposed military action against the communist regime in Cuba.

Foreman said he had learned that two weeks ago a ship loaded with arms left Havana for British Guiana. He termed this action part of the attempt to spread the revolution of the country in South America.

Such attempts, he said, pose a greater threat to America than the possibility of a nuclear attack.

A tax cut would be in order if federal spending were also cut, Foreman said, "but we can't have heavier spending with less to spend by the federal government."

About 300 Republicans from 28 Arkansas counties attended the dinner meeting, including William L. Spicker, state GOP chairman; Winthrop Rockefeller, national GOP committeeman from Arkansas; and the 1962 party candidates for state offices.

Prior to the dinner, at a stop in Little Rock, Foreman said he was concerned about attempts to silence Congressmen who persist in talking about Cuba.

Kennedy probably wouldn't have seen fit to act as he did in the Cuban situation if it hadn't been for the "responsible conservatives," particularly Republican leaders, he said.

Homemaker Award to Jan Ellis

Jan Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ellis, was presented the 1963 Betty Crocker Search of the Homemaker Award today at an assembly in Hope High School.

Principal Jack Beatty, who made the presentation announced that, not only was Jan the highest ranking contestant at Hope High School, but she is now among the top ten finalists in Arkansas.

She will now compete on the state level for first or second place. These winners receive $1,500 and $500, respectively, for scholarships to be used at the college of their choice.

The state winner attends the national meeting in Washington, D. C., where the finalist receives a $5,000 scholarship.

Senior girls in high schools throughout the 50 states are given the title annually.

Jan plans to attend Agnes Scott College at Decatur, Georgia, following graduation from Hope High School.

Churchmen Ask a Crackdown on Gambling: Truckers Take First Legislative Skirmish

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Church leaders from all over Arkansas crowded into a House committee room today to argue for a bill which would empower State Police to move against illegal gambling.

The proposal by Ashley County Rep. N. B. Murphy would create a special unit of the State Police to operate against illegal gambling.

Murphy's bill would cover operations anywhere in the state, but it became apparent early in the hearing before the House State Agency Committee that the group had its sights trained on Hot Springs.

The only talk against the Murphy bill was by Rep. Nathan Schoenfeld of Garland County, who said he planned to amend the measure to cover both gambling and liquor law violations.

Schoenfeld called the proposed new State Police unit "an SS division, nothing less, an SS division without the brown shirts."

Schoenfeld argued that gambling was a local matter and that for the State Police to move into Hot Springs would constitute interference by one arm of government into the affairs of another.

"The end does not justify the means," Schoenfeld declared. "I'm not arguing that the end sought by Mr. Murphy is a good one, but it is improper to cut across the lines of local government units."

More than 70 persons jammed the committee room and spilled over into the corridors.

Benton County Rep. Hardy Croxton, who said he represented the Benton County Christian Civic Foundation, said that State Police already had the power to stop illegal gambling but that a trend had developed in recent years in the governor's office against such use of state forces.

"Previous governors," Croxton said, "including Carl Bailey and Sid McMath, used state forces to control gambling. Gov. (Orval E.) Faubus said in 1954 (when he first was running for office) that he would send state forces against gambling."

"The first statement that State Police couldn't be used in this manner came in 1958 and the end of this complete shift in policy came on Jan. 12, 1963, when the governor said he would not use State Police against Hot Springs gambling. I think the governor is dead wrong in this."

Arguments of other speakers for the Murphy bill centered around whether Hot Springs and Garland County had the right to decide that they would violate the law.

"No group has the right to take a privilege that the group as a whole does not approve," said Rev. J. Albert Gatlin, president of the North Little Rock Ministerial Alliance.

Gatlin also said that the larger group had an obligation to move in some cases of morality.

"A community could be enslaved to an interest and helpless to protect itself and the larger group must step in," he said.

The Rev. Dale Cowling, pastor of the 2nd Baptist Church in Little Rock, said, "It becomes necessary in a family like a state for the state to step in when local officials fail."

There was considerable discussion of whether morality could be legislated. Cowling disposed of Confidence Vote for Mr. Macmillan

LONDON (AP)—Bolstered by a large confidence vote from its Conservative supporters, the British government embarked today on a combined industrial and diplomatic campaign to strengthen it in future dealings with the European Common Market.

Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath told the House of Commons that channels of communication and cooperation with the six-nation market must be kept open, and called on industrialists and unions for a determined effort to keep and expand business and win new trade outside its tariff walls.

"This would not only help increase our exports to Europe, but would safeguard Britain's interests in the developing community," he said Tuesday night.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government defeated the Laborite motion of no confidence 333-227. The majority was the government's largest on an important vote in 15 months.

Boy Scouts Subject of Kiwanis Talk

Boy Scout Executive Lynn Murphy of Hope was guest speaker before Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday, and pointed out that 36 million persons had been involved in the scout movement in American during the 53 years of the organization's history.

At the present time, he said, four million boys belong to the Boy Scouts of America, and there are an additional million adults who are involved in various capacities.

Three main objectives in scouting, the speaker pointed out, are: Character building; citizenship training and physical fitness. The program was arranged by Dr. F. C. Crow, who has been in scout work since 1929 and who holds one of the highest honor awards.

Guests included: The Rev. Robert Hyatt and Garland Smith.

They Believe in Planning Ahead

NEW CASTLE, Ky. (AP)—Henry County school officials believe in planning ahead so they built a 5,800-seat gymnasium for the county high school. That's big enough to hold half the county population and provide more than nine seats per pupil.

Some area residents are unhappy about the mammoth job but, said county school Supt. John W. Long, "I'd say 95 percent of the people are tickled to death."

Long said the school board decided on the large size in order to be prepared for future enrollment growth and added, "This building will serve the county for the next 75 years."

43 Killed in Air Crash, Wreckage Studied for Cause

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bits and pieces of a jet airliner, flung over a two-mile area when it crashed carrying 43 persons to their deaths in the Florida Everglades, were studied today by federal investigators seeking a cause for the tragedy.

Rescue teams joined the investigators in the search for bodies and a reason why the Northwest Orient Airlines jet plummeted out of the sky Tuesday only minutes after leaving Miami for Chicago, Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

Helicopters shuttled between the site, 14 miles from the nearest highway, carrying the bodies to a school converted into a temporary morgue. From the air, bodies could be seen sprawled around the wreckage with yellow markers placed by each. Many bodies seemed intact.

The Boeing jet was broken into bits. The largest section was a portion of the fuselage, some 200 yards from the nose section which was a mass of metal. Pieces of wing, less than a third of the entire length, lay about 400 yards from the main wreckage.

There was no indication that the plane attempted to make an emergency landing. The only tracks around the scene were those of helicopters and Army weasels.

Tight security measures were enforced by Civil Aeronautics Board and FBI agents trying to solve the mystery of the crash.

Seminole Indian children were given a holiday as their school house, 50 miles west of Miami, at a place called Miccosukee, became a temporary morgue. The school also served as a CAB communications base.

The two-room, white, frame school stands on concrete stilts because it borders on swampland. Park rangers, Florida Highway patrolmen and the FBI guarded the crash site area, at the edge of the Everglades National Park.

The wreckage was 14 miles south of the operations base, across a swamp choked with thick undergrowth that only swamp bugs and weasel vehicles could penetrate.

The flight recorder box, a compact set of instruments that might provide a clue to the crash, was taken from the wreckage and flown by Coast Guard helicopter to the operations base.

The recorder, a steel cylinder designed to withstand extreme pressure and heat, records on metallic tape an aircraft's direction, air speed, altitude and acceleration.

This morning as investigators looked for other pieces of the plane and passenger belongings, a cold north wind whispered across the damp, isolated swampland.

A team from the U.S. Fish and Game Commission reached the wreckage about midnight and radioed that it found the plane burning.

Miami FBI Agent Wesley Group conferred at the operations base with the CAB team. Grapp said his office usually cooperates with aviation officials in investigating

JFK Trying to Enlarge Key Committee

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has put his weight behind an effort to enlarge the Senate's key Finance Committee to get more elbow room there for his tax bill and other major legislation.

In his first intervention in such Senate matters, the President has sent White House aides to Capitol Hill to lobby for the addition of two seats to the 17-member committee headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va. Byrd is opposing this proposal.

The move—which presidential aides have tried to keep under cover—parallels Kennedy's earlier successful public fight to retain the traffic-directing House Rules Committee at the membership level of 15 calculated to open the road for action on his program.

The first test vote on enlarging the Finance Committee to 19 will come at a closed meeting Thursday of the Senate Democratic Steering Committee. This group is headed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana.

The outcome may depend on whether members vote by secret ballot. The administration holds a nominal 8-7 margin over seven Southern conservatives who could be expected to resist the placement of additional liberal party members on a committee previously dominated by a conservative Republican-Democratic coalition.

If the steering group should vote to expand the Finance Committee, Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has promised to fight the action in the Senate. Presumably he would have almost solid Republican support, plus that

Negro Youth Arrested for Break-in WASHINGTON (AP)—A 17-year-old youth was arrested Tuesday and charged with breaking into the home of special White House Assistant Brooks Hays and attacking his wife.

Police said the youth apologized to Mrs. Hays, whose wrist was broken in the brief encounter Jan. 22, and told her he needed money because his 16-year-old wife was pregnant.

Mrs. Hays told him: "If you had knocked on my door and told me you needed money because your wife was pregnant, I would have given it to you. You didn't need to break my arm."

The name of the youth, a Negro, was not released because of his age.

Hays is a former Congressman from Arkansas. He tried to act as mediator in the school integration dispute in Little Rock in 1957 and was beaten in the Democratic primary in 1958 by a candidate backed by Gov. Orval Faubus.

A Negro youth had surprised Mrs. Hays by entering the town house while she was sewing on the third floor. Mrs. Hays said the intruder threatened her life with a pair of scissors if she refused to give him money.

Police said the arrest was made after another break-in Tuesday. The youth previously had been in a correctional institution for break-ins, attempted rape and robbery in a police record that began when he was 14.

Hits Literary Test

Editor The Star: It is incredible in modern America that a purported representative of all the people would attempt, by means of legislation, to disfranchise a large segment of the population through a literacy test requirement as a basis for voting. That a self-styled demagogue should revert to such a basis for voting is a disgraceful and shameful act. I refer to an untimely proposed amendment to the Arkansas Constitution submitted by Representative Talbot Field, Jr., Hempstead County. As we know, the poll tax still instituted by several states will probably be repealed by an amendment to our Federal Constitution pending ratification by the various state legislatures. Therefore, since Arkansas is one of the six states that has retained the poll tax requirement, an alternative had to be present. Field and Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perry County undertook the job of drafting an amendment dealing with revision of the state voting registration procedures. The "brilliant" idea of slipping a literacy test in was Mr. Field's. Not only would a person be required to read any section of the state constitution, but also INTERPRET any passage selected by the county election official. Only an attorney or perhaps a State Supreme Court could interpret some parts. How difficult this would be for many to qualify to vote!

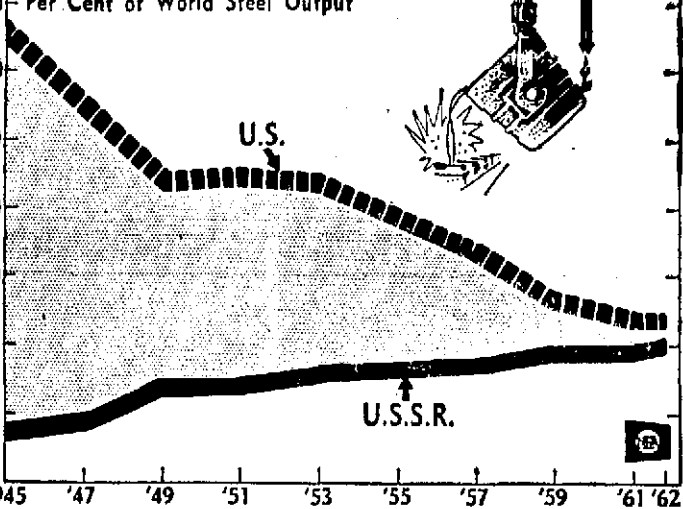

Mr. Field stily arranged for a vote in the House during the "morning hour" when most lawmakers, caught off guard not having familiarized themselves with provisions of the bill, voted "aye," in a routine manner. Now it is up to the House to reject and nullify previous passage.

Throughout history the blood of countless Americans has flowed so that we may enjoy our freedom of choice—especially this most basic prerogative of every citizen. I think Rep. Field owes the people an apology. Why would he want to destroy the very system that has given him the authority to enact our governing laws?

Certainly we should take stock of all our leaders. A few, including Talbot Field, Jr., who are seemingly abusing the public trust by extracting from, rather than adding to, our current liberties should ultimately be retired from public life. Thank you.

STEEL OUTPUT CLOSER

CLASH OF STEEL—America and the Soviet Union appear headed for a showdown on who is going to lead the world in the production of steel. Russia, whose output has increased every year since World War II, made 21 per cent (84.2 million tons) of the world's steel in 1962. The U.S., whose output has had ups and downs since 1945, saw its percentage of the world total dwindle to 24.6 per cent (98.3 million tons) in 1962. World steel output reached a record 399 million net tons last year, a gain of about 6.5 million tons. In 1945, Russia made only 8.4 per cent of the world's steel; the U.S., 66 per cent. DR. PRUITT'S BODY

Johnson's secretary said that her boss would be in very shortly. "He'd better," she added. "I'm getting gosh-darn hungry." He was a cute kid but Matt could see that Fred Bernard was correct about her brains. He sat down and waited for 15 minutes before Johnson came briskly through the door.

"Hello there, Bacon," he said condescendingly. "Want to see me?"
Matt nodded. "I'm tying up a few loose ends."
Johnson looked surprised. "You've found the murderer?"
"Not quite. I need some information."

Johnson spoke to his secretary. "You can go to lunch, Mildred. Take as long as you wish." Mildred grabbed her purse before he finished talking and she said "Thanks" on the way out the door to get her coat.

"Come in here," said Johnson, pointing to the door of his private office. "It's more private." He led the way and closed the door after Matt entered. It wasn't much, in comparison to Rispin's and Bradley's office. It was large enough for a desk which was in the center of the room leaving just enough space for a chair behind it. There was a small closet, where Johnson put his hat on a shelf and hung his overcoat on a hanger. There was a filing cabinet and an extra chair on the near side of the desk.

Matt took off his coat and hat and put them on top of the filing cabinet. "Hand them to me," said Johnson. "I'll hang them up for you."
"No thanks," said Matt. "I don't expect to be here long." Johnson seated himself behind the desk and Matt walked to the side and remained standing. Johnson looked up at Matt uneasily. "Won't you sit down? Tell me what's on your mind."
"Murder," said Matt.
"Words of two syllables," said Johnson. "I guess it's on all our minds."

Matt leaned across Johnson and pulled open the middle drawer of the desk. "First, I'd better pull your teeth," he said as he took a cheap .38 revolver from the drawer. It was the kind that once was sold in all pawnshops before gun laws got strict about such things.

"What do you mean by that?" Johnson snapped. He made a grab for Matt's hand, but wasn't quick enough. "Put it back!"
"Is this the one you used to take a pot shot at me?" Matt asked.
"I don't know what you're talking about."

"You know what I mean," said Matt. "The police said the bullet that lodged in my car at Miss Stevenson's place the other night was pretty smashed, but they can do wonders in ballistics. If it turns out to be the same gun, you're in trouble."

"You can't prove I had something to do with it. I never saw that gun before. Somebody put it there. Maybe you did!"
Matt moved around the desk. He pulled the chair to one side and sat with the door to his left, Johnson to his right. The gun he placed on the desk corner, just out of Johnson's reach.

Matt gave Johnson a long, thoughtful look. "So I've tried to frame you? That it?"
"I know you put the gun in my drawer. You've got a bad reputation, Bacon."

"The funny thing about this case is that the most vicious man in it, which is you, Mr. Johnson, isn't the murderer. The actual murderer is someone who could ultimately be retired from public life. Thank you."

this with, "The law is designed to protect the moral from the immoral."

Edward Maddox, a Harrisburg attorney, said he saw no danger in the Murphy bill.

"It calls for the new State Police unit to present to the prosecutor and the grand jury in the county in which the violation occurs any evidence that it may find," Maddox said.

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Truckers won the first skirmish in a legislative battle over increasing truck weights Tuesday amid indications that their opponents are fighting with pop guns.

The Senate rejected efforts by Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton to lower through amendment the new weight and length limits set by a pending bill.

Then the upper chamber rejected an effort by Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock to strike an emergency clause from the bill so it could not take effect until voters have a chance to pass on it.

Howell argued that the last several legislatures have considered truck weights without approving an increase and he could see no reason for the hurry this time.

Passage of the bill with an emergency clause would put the measure into effect as soon as the governor signs and it will stay in effect unless voters reject it at the polls.

Without an emergency clause, opponents to the bill could get it suspended until a vote is conducted at the 1964 general election.

Howell got only seven votes for his amendment.

Harvey got seven votes for an amendment to reduce the maximum permissible weight from 73,280 pounds to 66,000 and six for his amendment to hold the maximum length at 50 feet, instead of 55 as stated in the bill.

The vote indicates that the Senate is ready to pass the bill basically as it was written. It did approve two minor amendments which had the approval of Sen. Merle Peterson of Dumas, author of the bill.

Peterson opposed both Harvey's amendments and Howell's proposal to clear the way for a popular vote. He was joined by Sen. Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff.

Senate approved truck weight legislation in 1961, but it was defeated in the House after Perry County Rep. Paul Van Dalsem conducted a filibuster against it.

Harvey, arguing for his 66,000 limit, said he felt it was better to go slow. "We're giving the truckers a break with this amendment," he said. "But I warn you that we'll never get that limit lowered if we put it too high."

Howell called the emergency clause, which was added to the bill by amendment after the measure was introduced, an effort to "ram and jam this legislation down the people's throats."

Earlier Tuesday the House Roads and Highways Committee recommended passage of the lower chamber version of the weight bill and the House Revenue and Taxation Committee voted 6-4 in favor of a companion bill to increase the license fee on trucks weighing more than 56,000 pounds.

The expected bill to boost unemployment benefits and employer taxes was introduced simultaneously in both houses Tuesday.

The Senate version was sponsored by Gathright and Sen. Knox Nelson of Pine Bluff, the House bill by Rep. Arthur Deckleman of Drew County and others.

The bills would raise the maximum benefit, now $30 a week, to 60 per cent of the average weekly wage in the state. The average wage now is $67.44 but it has been increasing each year.

Deckleman said sponsors of the bills expected the benefit to reach $35 a week.

The employer tax would be increased two-tenths of one cent on all employers but those with a deficit in their employment security account would face larger increases.

Deficit employers are those whose former employees through drawing benefits have exhausted the funds paid in by the employer.

For these employers, the tax would be boosted from 2.7 per cent to 3 per cent immediately with provisions for an increase to 3.3 per cent in 1964, 3.6 per cent in 1965 and 4 per cent in 1966.

The Employment Security division announced recently that the state's benefit fund was being depleted.

The House received a proposed constitutional amendment Tuesday to permit establishment of county manager government, similar to city manager government now in effect in some cities.

The amendment provides for election of a five-member county board of directors which would hire a county manager, or chief executive. Arkansas counties now are governed by the county judge, sitting as the county court.

Passed in the Senate Tuesday the voting machines amendment was a House bill to implement adopted in the 1962 general election. The Senate also passed a bill to establish a permanent press room in the capitol. Both measures are ready for the governor's signature.

The Senate defeated a House bill which would have extended the time for filing of mechanic's and materialman's liens from 120 days to six months.

The House passed Senate bills to outlaw dumping of trash within one quarter mile of schools and churches and to permit state institutions to dispose of surplus property.

House introductions Tuesday included measures to:

Outlaw the sale of alcoholic beverages, except in liquor stores, eliminating drug stores and supermarkets, among others, as outlets.

Provide for purchase of land off the capitol grounds for construction of a Revenue Building for which a $1.6 million fund was set up in 1961.

Exempt seed and raw farm produce from the state sales tax.

Require screening of automobile graveyards which can be seen from a state highway.

Give authority over the capitol buildings and grounds to a new State Capitol Building and Grounds Commission, to be composed of constitutional officers.

The secretary of state now manages the building and grounds.

Close Grading Said to Be Harmful

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—High school English teachers who painstakingly mark every mistake on a theme are doing their students more harm than good, an expert said today.

Paul B. Diederich, director of research in English for the Educational Testing Service, said the most common effect of such correcting is that "most students learn to hate and fear writing."

"So far as they can see," he added in an address prepared for a national convention of high school principals, "they have never done anything on paper that anybody thought was any good."

The students' greatest need, he said, is help and encouragement to do better.

Diederich is in charge of a program to encourage use of qualified housewives as theme readers, working under close supervision. The practice is now firmly established in almost every state.

he said. Most of the housewives, who majored in English in college, earn about $80 a month for an average of two hours work per school day at home.

Diederich said he tells these housewife-readers: "Your first is to find at least one thing, and preferably two or three things, that the student has done well, or better than before."

"Then, if you must, find one thing, and preferably not more than one thing, that he should try to improve in his next paper."

Diederich said the need to use housewives as theme readers is a simple case of arithmetic—while the number of high school students has been zooming, the percentage of teachers graduating with a major in English has been steadily declining.

such disasters. The craft lost radio contact with Miami International Airport traffic control seven minutes after it took off in a rain squall at 1:35 p.m. Six and one-half hours elapsed before the firewreck was sighted, 43 miles southwest of Miami, in a search that covered the Southeast.

Coast Guardmen, who spotted the Boeing 720B from a helicopter landed and found no indication that any of the 35 passengers and 8 crew members had survived.

"It lay smack in the middle of a swamp. The fuselage was all busted up and consumed by fire," the copter crew said.

It was not determined what knocked the plane out of the sky only minutes after it flew into squally weather that lashed Florida throughout the day. Glades fishermen said they saw a fire ball in the sky.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators and military personnel headed into the swampy wilderness by helicopter and a caravan of tractor-like vehicles. The area was closed to all but official groups. The crash scene is nine miles from the nearest road, Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. James Dillon and W. C. Wallace, who spied the wreck near darkness, landed gingerly on boggy ground and explored the scene.

"All around us were little pieces of wreckage and a lot of luggage," Dillon said. "Wallace said it looked as if all the bodies were intact. All he had was a flashlight and he couldn't see too much."

The Sharon Springs Central School in Schoharie County, N.Y., closed its doors for the week after 135 of the 425 students and eight faculty members developed a flu-like ailment.

A veterans hospital in Minneapolis and the Easton, Md., Memorial Hospital curtailed visiting hours because of virus outbreaks similar to flu. The Easton hospital said its medical and surgical beds were filled to capacity and it was forced to use obstetric beds which normally are not used for contagious cases.

of many conservative Democrats. Dirksen is slated to fill a Republican vacancy on the Finance group. His opposition to enlargement of the committee may be somewhat compromised by his efforts to get the Senate Appropriations Committee expanded so that Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., will not lose his seat on that important group.

The President's action in stepping into the controversy was regarded in some quarters as a move to placate liberal Democrats who complained bitterly that he did not hit a hand for them in their vain effort to make it easier for the Senate to cut off filibusters.

Hilderbrand Is Mentally Disturbed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Joe Hilderbrand, the Ozark Mountain outlaw, has been found mentally ill by State Hospital doctors.

The State Hospital asked Pulaski Circuit Court today to permanently commit him to the institution for treatment.

The hospital told circuit Judge William J. Kirby that Hilderbrand was psychotic, but added that he was not mentally ill to the degree of irresponsibility when he escaped from the State Hospital Aug. 1, 1961.

At that time he was being examined by the hospital staff after being arrested near Dover. Hilderbrand had not returned to the state prison from a furlough and had led officers a long chase. He had been serving a term for robbery.

After his escape from the State Hospital, Hilderbrand remained free until last Oct. 6 when State Police caught him at his father's home in Pope County.

He pleaded guilty in Pope Circuit Court to assaulting a 16-year-old girl and to burglary and grand larceny. He was given concurrent five-year prison sentences.

Then he was taken to the State Prison for safe keeping.

But upon arraignment in Pulaski Circuit Court for the crime of escape, his attorney entered a plea of innocent by reason of insanity, and he was sent back to the hospital for further tests.

More compelling than aid to liberals apparently is White House anxiety over the fate of the presidential program for tax cuts accompanied by structural changes in the revenue laws.

Try-on hairdo is the best way to face the shears without tears. This model (left) first cut new hairstyles from magazines. Then she had an enlarged photostat made, held it to her face (center) to see how she would look in a short ear-tip hairdo. She models her new shorter style (right) from the try-on coil that flattered her most. Another approach would be to use a passport-size photo, cut out several hairdos about the same size and try them over photo.

DOROTHY DIX Little Sister Seeks Haven

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: Ever since my husband and I were married nine years ago we have had one relative after another living with us. When my father passed away my mother came to live with us. She finally married again and every thing was wonderful until four months ago when my mother-in-law and her six children came for a visit. They stayed on and on so finally — she being my husband's mother by her first husband, and the children his half-brothers and half-sisters (the eldest is only 16) — I fixed up part of our house for them to live in permanently.

Well, it wasn't two weeks after this that mom started flocking in to see her and the girls; keeping us awake all night with their drinking, cussing and throwing of beer cans out the windows. It was shocking. We tried our best to put a stop to these carry-overs but got nowhere. The little 12-year-old girl seemed different from the rest. When the men called she'd seek haven with us in our part of the house, fearful of what they'd do. I'm not saying her two little sisters were bad, they just copied Mama and the others. When we saw there was nothing we could do, we just moved out ourselves. The 12-year-old asked her mother if she could go with us. Her Mama says yes, then no. I didn't know what to do. The poor kid cried and kept saying she was scared to stay behind; so I took her to the authorities and she explained the situation and they told me to take her with me, but added that if she wished she could return home any time. She seems to be happy here but I often wonder if I've done right for she really loves her mother and brothers and sisters, wanton as they are. It makes me feel guilty for splitting up a family. My husband says I have done right. He spent seven years in an orphanage himself so knows what this little girl is up against. We want to make one decent child out of the lot.

The welfare authorities are investigating the situation and agree that I am right. I don't hate my mother-in-law — just feel sorry that she could enjoy such a life. Her lover lives openly with her and the whole lot of them subsist on what little alimony her ex-husband sends. Should I go ahead and try to raise her little girl as my own? — Miserable and Confused

Dear Miserable: Abide by what your husband and the authorities say. There is no sense in sending little sister back to her wayward family unless she clamors to go. But, if you keep her, put the arrangement on a legal basis. Get a lawyer, go to court and ask for legal guardianship of the child. The mother and other children must either behave themselves or stay out of your house. Make this a condition. Since the culprit is his mother, your husband should take charge. Being a blood relative he, not you, is the one to assume the responsibility.

Dear Helen: I fear too many young girls marry without fully comprehending the marriage vows. If they did, we mothers-in-law would fare better. For example there is the clause where the bridegroom promises to forsake all others and cleave only unto his bride. Our daughter-in-law takes this to mean that her husband must forsake his mother. This makes it very hard for a mother whose love does not end just because her boy marries. Our son was in an automobile accident and our daughter-in-law wouldn't let us see him. To keep peace we have dropped out of their lives. Now we are going West. Should we say goodbye? I am not the true mother of this firmed's father came by to pick own and he calls me Mother and us up after school. We are afraid to tell either of our parents and expect the worst from this girl. She's a terror. What to do? —Two Scared Cats

Dear Scaries: Don't let this hellion bluff you. Tell your parents and teachers. Meet the issue. If this girl and her gang attempt to beat you up, have them arrested. The more you kneel under, the worse the situation will be. Assert yourselves. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, care of this newspaper for my leaflet, "Teenage Code," read and pass along to Miss Bully.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Completes Walk After a Delay

MEMPHIS (AP) — Houston Van Bibber, 50, of Blytheville, Ark., completed a 68-mile hike Tuesday in answer to a challenge for fitness by President Kennedy — but he took a break on the way for a night's sleep.

Van Bibber cover 35 miles in 10 hours Monday before it got dark and cars began to narrowly miss him on the highway. He retired until dawn, then resumed his march to Memphis, covering 33 miles in 11 hours.

He said the return trip would be made by bus.

CHATTER

By BILL RALEY

We ran across a sentimental little ditty which we would like to pass along . . .

"We flatter those we scarcely know,

We strive to please the fleeting guest,

And deal full many a thoughtless blow

To those who love us best."

There is actually more truth than poetry in this, and just in case you neglected someone at Christmas time, you can make up for it with a Valentine gift.

If you have doubts about what SHE would like to have, we have many suggestions.

Jonne costume jewelry that sparkles and glitters. The pin that can be worn on a basic dress, fastened to her coat lapel, has earrings to match, makes such a lovely gift, one to be kept and long remembered.

Stockings that come three pairs to the box, in the beautiful new spring shades. No woman has ever been known to have too many.

A night-dress in sheer nylon chiffon, waltz-length and in lovely pastel shades, something a person would love to own and hardly ever buys for oneself. Robes and pajamas to match, in that packable, washable fabric of Dacron, Nylon and Cotton Batiste.

You might be surprised how easy it is to choose a dress for a woman. The new spring prints are here; we can help you with the selection that is sure to please. A Valentine package from Ray's Style Shoppe would put stars in her eyes and a song in her heart.

There are so many things, from one dollar to many dollars, we would like to show you. We invite you to shop tomorrow and every day at Ray's Style Shoppe, Hope's House of Fashion.

Sees Russia Forced Into Europe Pact

Europe at the Crossroads: III

EDITOR'S NOTE—In Charles de Gaulle's view of Europe, where does the Soviet Union fit? In this third of four articles on events in Europe, AP correspondent William L. Ryan reports his findings after interviews in France, Germany, Britain and Belgium.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

LONDON (AP)—Lofty Charles de Gaulle gazes over the heads of ordinary mortals and sees a distant vision of history.

That probably had much to do with his activities in the past month, activities his critics say threaten to rip Europe to pieces.

His vision probably impelled the tall, 72-year-old French president to implant a kiss on the craggy cheek of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, sealing a treaty to end French-German blood-letting.

De Gaulle is pictured by pro-unity Europeans as a villain playing Parisian roulette with Europe's future and making the Communists happy.

The Communists, indeed, were happy when De Gaulle rocked the European Economic Community—or Common Market—and threatened it with collapse by vetoing Britain's bid for membership.

The Brussels meeting of foreign ministers of the six Common Market nations ended Jan. 29 with the West thrown into confusion.

But De Gaulle worries the Communists, too. Deeply suspicious of the Germans, the Communists fear De Gaulle's treaty with Adenauer is intended to threaten their hold on East Germany and Eastern Europe.

What is the tall, austere man of Paris trying to do? Is he contemplating some sort of deal with Moscow? Is he trying to rule Continental Europe?

De Gaulle insists he is faithful to the Atlantic Alliance. But he insists also that France must be independent within any union and must wield her own nuclear deterrent. His Europe would be a "Europe of the fatherlands," a loose confederation of entirely sovereign nations—with France, apparently, occupying the guiding dominating role.

De Gaulle's vision of history foresees a time when the Russians, as Europeans, will be forced into Europe's arms by a growing Chinese threat.

The time will come, De Gaulle has said, when Russia will find herself "face to face with the yellow masses of China, numberless and impoverished, indestructible and ambitious, building through trial and hardship a power which cannot be measured, casting her eyes about her on the open spaces (Siberia) over which one day she must spread."

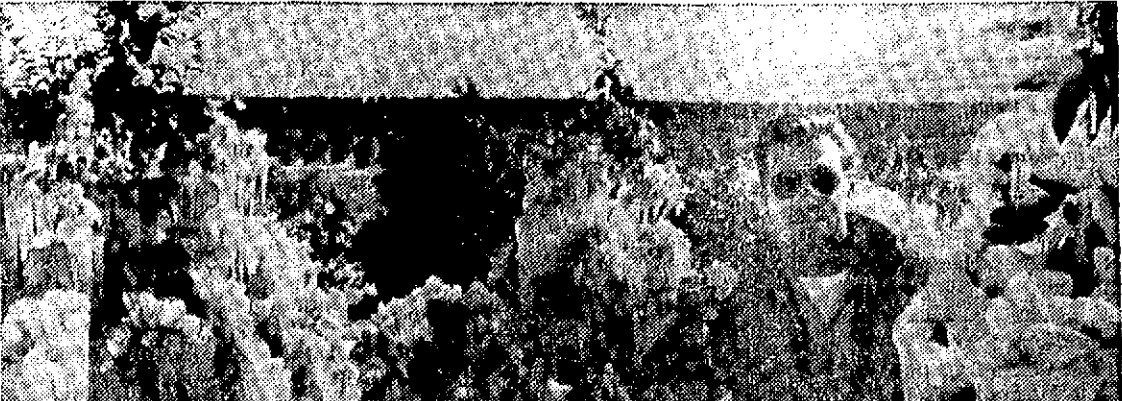

De Gaulle indicates a belief that Premier Khrushchev detects the threat and will begin the orientation westward. He professes to see Russia not as the country it was 10 years ago, and Khrushchev as possibly the best representative of the present-day Soviet Union.

Does this presage an attempted De Gaulle-Khrushchev deal?

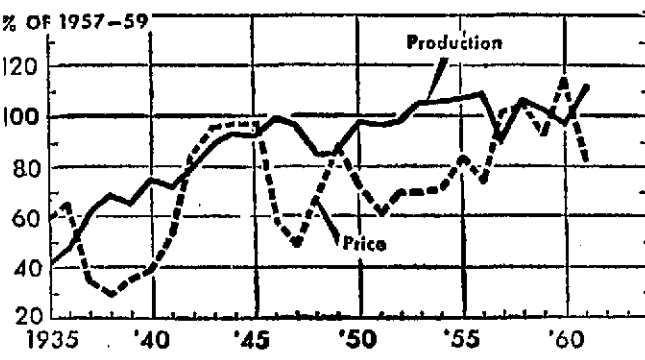

These are De Gaulle's long-term views. He says it is "Europe from the Atlantic to the Urals, it is the whole of Europe which will decide the destiny of the world." But the equilibrium he speaks about will come to pass only when "Russia stops poisoning the springs."

In the meantime De Gaulle is hard as a rock on negotiations with Russia, notably with regard to West Berlin and Germany's future.

This does not preclude a gesture

Bobcats Take Crossett in District Go

By CARTER HARDAGE

Tuesday night, the Bobcats took another Conference game to make their record 6-2. They defeated Crossett 69-54 in one of their best games. Also at Hope, the "B" Boys 2nd team was downed 53-45. Meanwhile, at Gurdin, the Lady Cats really whipped their opposition 47-20, but the "B" Team was edged 51-50 in a real thriller.

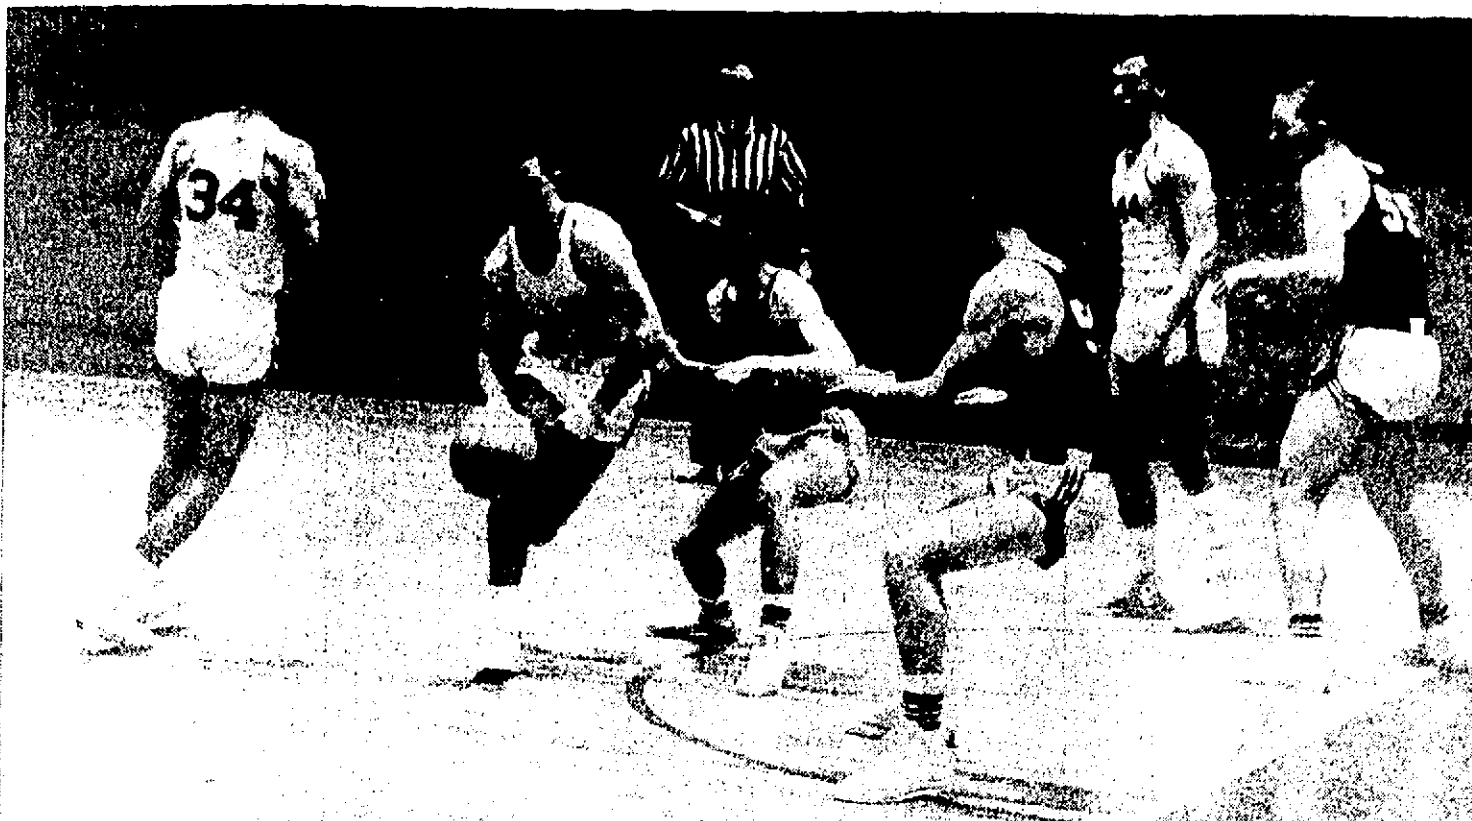

The Senior Girls had little or no trouble romping Gurdin 47-20. Hope quickly took a 12-4 lead for the Quarter, and lengthened the gap to 27-9 at the Half. It was 36-19 after the Third Quarter, and after a big final Quarter, the Lady Cats took a big 47-20 victory. Annette Halfield was high with 13 points. Also scoring were: Shirley Smith and Carolyn Halfield with 10 each, Janice Lloyd 8, and Phyllis Martin 6.

The "B" Team fell in a close one, though. Gurdin managed to take a 12-0 lead by the Quarter, and they led 27-23 at the Half. Maintaining the lead, it was Gurdin 39, Hope 35 for the Third Quarter. Then Hope managed to come up and take the lead 50-49, but with one second left, Gurdin came from behind to win a 51-50 thriller. Reinhardt was high with 13. Others racking up points were: Honeycutt 11, Jordan and Wassell 10 each, Henley 4, and Thrash 2.

At this same time, the "B" Boys second team was seeing action against Crossett. Hope dropped behind 18-9 by the Quarter, and 27-19 at the Half. The "B" Boys came up to 41-39 at the Third Quarter, and even 41-40 during the last Quarter, but finally fell 53-45. Mike Allen was high with a big 17 points. Others scoring were: Billings 8, McNatt 7, Burnett 6, Coop 5, and Mayfield 2.

Making up a postponed game, Hope took Crossett on quite a ride and also took a Conference victory. The Cats started off with a bang to lead a rather large 19-8 for the Quarter, and an even bigger 41-16 at the Half. Never slowing down, however, Crossett came up to 56-38 at the Quarter, and even reached 58-52 during the final Quarter. Then, however, the "A" team went in and started to freeze with four minutes to go. Crossett started fouling and Hope iced up things at 69-54 for their Third Conference victory in a row. After the game, Coach Mitchell, showing what makes a good coach, confirmed that "I never had a doubt that my boys could do it."

Rice Proves Too Much for Razorbacks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Rice's triple threat was too much for Arkansas Tuesday night. The Razorbacks held Kendall Rhine to his lowest game total this year, but opened the gates to two other players and lost the match 69-65.

Herb Steinkamp hit five straight free throws in the last moments of the game to ice the victory for the Owls. He hit for 17 points to lead Rice and Jim Phillips netted 15.

The Porkers held Rhine to 12 points. Still, he made a big difference in the game, raking the boards 20 times.

After a see-saw opening, Larry Vogel handed the Razorbacks the lead, 13-12, with 7 minutes gone. They retained it for the next 22½ minutes of play, holding a 39-34 halftime lead.

With 3:50 to go, Steinkamp hit a 6-foot jump shot, putting the Owls ahead 62-60, then hit each of five free throws.

Skippy Koffman missed the first shot of one-and-one free throw and Tommy Boyer failed to make a long jump shot with 8 seconds remaining, leaving Arkansas out of contention.

Jim Wilson paced the Porkers with 19 points, while Tommy Boyer contributed 16 and Vogel 10.

The victory put Rice ahead of the Razorbacks in Southwest Conference play, 6-2 to 4-4, but both teams have 9-9 season records.
